1 of 1 and activists rescue puppy from drain in Balewadi

Animal Fell Through Manhole A Week Ago

TWO-DAY EFFORT

- RESQ gets a call on June 18 about the puppy.
- Animal lover Smita Khar, who had lost the puppy for five days, alerts others.
- RESQ, the fire brigade and civic officials head to the spot.
- Rescuers are unable to crawl through the backing pipe and suggest the rescue effort for the day.
- On Monday morning, RESQ seals the drains and isolates the puppy.
- Soldiers, who are trained to crawl through the backing pipe and suggest the rescue effort for the day.
- On Monday morning, RESQ seals the drains and isolates the puppy.
- Soldiers, who are trained to crawl through the backing pipe and suggest the rescue effort for the day.

On Monday, rescuers try and fail to locate the puppy using a camera-mounted remote-controlled car.

One man falls through the pipe for 20m and gets the puppy out from the other end.

Except for a minor limp, the puppy is unharmed.

These soldiers came to the rescue, thanks to the efforts of Lt Col Vikram Bhatnagar, an anti-drain line. "I got into work in a soldier's uniform and out in a minute — the professionals on each pipe can track a person out cold within 30 seconds. We had all the drains inside opened to let sunlight and air inside the pipe," said Bhatnagar.

One of the officers crawled through the pipe like a snake and managed to bring the puppy out from the other end. Together, my friends from the army to help an soldier are trained to crawl on their elbows through such spaces," he added.

The puppy had fallen through an unsecured manhole a week ago. Smita Khar, an animal lover, heard the news as it escaped through the manhole of the drain. She felt the puppy for five days before alerting others, who then called RESQ. "The puppy is also usually rather used to a situation. It's not a problem," said Bhatnagar. The puppy is being rehabilitated by the RESQ, which will shortly find a home for it.

Towing tradition

For some, it's an inheritance. Hardik Pardeshi's family has been associated with the prestigious Guraji Talim Mandal for over 30 years now, and the 26-year-old doing a BSc in hotel management from AISSMS has followed in their footsteps with a refreshing zeal. "It's been the highlight of my year since the 10th standard," he gushed, going on to say, "Throughout the year, I keep an eye out for new ideas I can make use of during the festivities, whether it's the lights, the decoration or even social media strategies. As Festival Head this year, I've attended police and corporation meetings, arranged the dhoti-tasha pathaks, and even organised blood donation drives on behalf of the mandal."

A full-time job like this requires immense dedication and perseverance, as expected, which is all the more difficult for students to manage. But Hardik has no qualms about juggling it. "Giving up on sleep and even meals sometimes doesn't feel like a sacrifice when Ganapati Bappa graces our premises for those 10 glorious days," he smiled, adding, "In fact, it's great practice for the future, considering that I'm pursuing a career in hospitality. A memorable experience every year is staying up all night to guard the idol with a couple of friends. The last two days are almost entirely sleepless, what with the renewed 'sharan miravruk' we host. But in the end, it's all worth the pain."

Women in the fray

With most of the festivities being handled by the male population of the city, female

Ishan Vaidya from Fergusson College is working on the Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao Andolan as the theme for the Gokhale Smarak Chowk Mitra Mandal Trust's 'dekhava' this year roots. The feeling of holding the 'dhwaj' in your hands is an entirely different high. With rigorous practice and odd hours, playing in processions is a task of extreme grit and passion, and Katha enjoys it to the core. "The very first miravruk of my life was at Dagguseth, and it was remarkable," she reminisced fondly, saying, "When all of us play the first 'thoka' together, there is a collective jolt of energy that goes through each one of us. And, from then onwards, it's a resounding chorus of positive vibes and rhythm for the rest of the evening. That sense of belonging and togetherness is where the true spirit of Ganapati lies, and I'm privileged that I can be part of it."
