Activity Report:

Set up: There are different variations to set up this game depending on what materials you may have around you. To set up, you will need to lay out 10 rows of three pictures of hands and feet taped to the floor. Each row will have the pictures in a different order. These pictures can be printed from the template, sketched on different pieces of paper, or drawn with chalk on the sidewalk.

How to play: The technical event was a HOPSCOTCH and WHO I AM. The goal of this game is to match your hands and feet to first row of picture and at each step participants have to answer the technical questions which are related to general knowledge and have to complete the game in given time slot.

WHO AM I Questions are as follows:

SI unit of voltage ?

SI unit of current ?

Inventor of bulb ?

A device which is used to measure current?
